

Data protection policy

1. Great things....

We will only use your information to keep you updated about the amazing things we are doing. We won't send you any old rubbish, just the things we want to shout about.

2. Keeping it safe.

We'll protect your data, and won't share it with anyone else. Not even if they bribed us with chocolate.

3. We'll talk to you, if you want us to.

If you have things to say, we want to hear them. Tell us what you think and feel, this can help us improve and we'll respond as soon as we can. By providing us with your information, you'll be part of our community. If you want to know anything about your data, just ask.

4. No junk, just joy!

You decide whether you want to hear from us. By providing us with your email address, we'll keep you updated. If you decide you don't want to hear from us, you can let us know. Simple!

5. We only keep what we need

Your info won't sit for ages in a cluttered database. If we don't need it, we'll delete it.

Protecting Your Privacy

At Boost, we are 100% committed to protecting the privacy and security of community (yep, we mean you). If you have any questions about how we protect your privacy, drop us a line at hello@wewearboost.com.

For all our services, the data controller – the company that's responsible for your privacy – is Boost Innovations Limited.